Text elements

Text

You use text elements to include different types of text content on your page.
Contao offers special elements that are optimized for management in the back-end and deliver correct output in the front end. In the following paragraphs the characteristics of the individual element types are described and explained.

Text

Headline

The headline element adds a single headline to your page. You can set the level of the headline ranging from h1 to h6.

The first headline on this page was created by using a headline element with the level set to h1.

But you do not have to use this element to add a headline to your page. Almost every other element features an additional
